

Institution Status Report

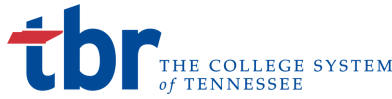

This Institution Status Report displays select statistics for the community college as infographics.

The following metrics are presented:

- Percent of undergraduate students who are adult learners (25 years old or above) and who receive Pell grants for an institution and system-wide
- Breakdown of adult learners and Pell grant recipients into full-time and part-time enrollees and the number of full-time students taking more than 15 credit hours
- Percent of graduates who are adult learners and Pell grant recipients for an institution and system-wide
- Top five feeder counties that send the majority of students to the institution
- Unemployment rate, median income, per-capita income, and educational attainment (associate degree or higher) for the service area of the institution and statewide
- Three-year graduation rate from home institution for all first-time freshmen and underrepresented minorities
- Correlation between educational attainment and personal income per capita, and educational attainment and unemployment rate for the service area of the institution

Every statistic is explained in more details in the INTRODUCTION, which is posted above the Institution Status Reports for all TBR community colleges.

Please note that because of the definitions and methodologies that were used to estimate each metric, some results may differ from the other reports of similar statistics.
